

One lucky family gets an affordable house

Housing lottery draws 55 applicants

WILMINGTON - With over 50 residents and former residents in attendance, children playing on the floor and babies crying, the Wilmington Housing Partnership held a lottery on August 21, 1997 for one affordable home located on Denault Drive. Wilmington residents, former residents and town employees were eligible if they met program income and asset guidelines and qualified as a first time home buyer. The sale price is $94,500. L.A. Associates of Wilmington is the developer.

Fifty-five households prequalified for the lottery and names were drawn by Mark Haldane, chair of the Partnership. Family households were given preference. The winner of the lottery must now be able to secure mortgage financing through a lender in order to purchase the home through the program. In his introduction, Mark Haldane said, "For those who are ultimately unsuccessful tonight, we expect to have another lottery for seven affordable homes at Saddle Oak Estates off West Street in Wilmington."

This lottery represents the culmination of a four year effort by the Wilmington Housing Partnership to develop three affordable, single family homes on town owned land for Wilmington residents. All the homes will remain affordable in perpetuity through the use of a regulatory agreement and deed rider which limits the sales price in the future. In addition to this effort, the Partnership reviews proposed private affordable housing development toward the goal of creating affordable housing that will be an asset to the community, and monitors on-going developments.

Mark Haldane commented, "Given the interest the Town has received from developers, there is obviously a demand for affordable housing in Wilmington, as evidenced by the fact that 55 qualified families and individuals came out for this lottery for only one home." In addition to Mark Haldane, members of the Housing Partnership include Vice Chair Ray Forest, Charles Boyle, Gregory Erickson, Carole Hamilton, Alfred Meegan Jr., Daniel Paret, Inspector of Buildings, the Rev. Herbert Taylor, Daniel Wandell, chairman of the board of selectmen and Lester White. Lynn Goonin Duncan, director of planning and conservation, serves as staff to the board. The board regularly meets on the second Thursday of the month and invites all interested residents to attend.

Those with questions may contact Lynn Goonin Duncan, director of planning & conservation at 658-8238.

Water color to be demonstrated

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington Center for the Arts will present Ms. Joan Rademacher of Methuen, a well-known, talented artist in a demonstration of watercolors Wednesday evening, September 17 at 7:00 at the Arts Center. Ms. Rademacher is a graduate of the School of Practical Art (now the Art Institute of Boston) and works as an illustrator. Workshops with nationally known artists Betty Lou Schlemm, David Millard and Ferdinand Petrie helped inspire her life long fascination with watercolor.

A member of the North Shore Arts Association, Gloucester, the Concord Art Association, and the Andover Artists Guild, her work has won many awards, most recently the Springfield Art League National Exhibition Peggy Godfrey Award, first place in watercolor.

Ms. Rademacher has had solo shows at the Art Gallery at Six Deering St., Portland, Maine and the Freyda Gallery of Rockport, MA as well as group shows at the Copley Society of Boston, the Concord and Newburyport Art Associations, and Channel 2 Auction's two collection. She is frequently asked to judge art competition and was one of the judges of the Wilmington Arts Exhibition in June, 1997.

She is represented in many corporate collections in New Hampshire and Massachusetts as well as private collections here and abroad.

The Arts Center is located on Route 62 across from the Congregational Church and is disabled accessible. There is no admission fee.

6 years in the making

Library ground breaking Sept. 18

By MICHAEL VITALE

TEWKSBURY - It was decided last Tuesday that the residents of Tewksbury would not ever need to go without a book they desired. Actually, last Tuesday was the day that Tewksbury's Selectmen confirmed a loan for three million dollars total for the town to construct a new library on the corner of Main Street and Chandler Street.

The idea for Tewksbury to have a new, bigger library, is not new. "It's been six years in the making," says Elizabeth Desmaris, head librarian. However, things have just recently been falling into place. The project was awarded 2.2 million dollars from the state, even though it received competition for other bidders, and also has trust funds, which makes over five million total.

Groundbreaking for the project will begin on Thursday, September 18 at 6:30 p.m. at the site, and is open to the public. "There may be some small work before then, but this ceremony will kick things off," Desmaris said. And it will be kicking off a 14-16 month project. The building is going to be roughly 30,000 square feet, and probably won't be available for use until end of 1998.

The town's response to the project has been very positive. As for the old building, it may become a town hall annex, or may be used for some other municipal purpose.

It's YOUR Money

TAKE THE TAX
BREAK? MAYBE NOT!

For the next three years, Congress is offering a special deal to taxpayers with large balances in their deferred retirement plans. They may use as much as they want without having to pay the 15-percent excise tax usually due on distributions exceeding $160,000 or $800,000 for a lump-sum payout. Actually, though, the measure is better for the government than for most taxpayers, at least those much under 70 years old. There, the excise tax forgiven, but income tax is still due on any distributions. Congress figured the IRS would collect more now, not less, under the excise tax suspension. Before taking out your excess funds, consider first how much you have and when you need it, your bracket, what your retirement money is earning and, of course, your age. Recalculate before the end of 1999. For many people, it makes more sense to let the money ride. The more the account earns the faster deferral beats taking money out now. When it comes to crunching the numbers, come to the finance and tax people at Wilmington Seaman Charlie Ellsworth headed off to WWII on the USS Topeka. Now more than 50 years later the men of the Topeka still meet for their ship's reunion.

WWII ship still on his agenda

by MICHAEL VITALE

Seeing old friends, sharing memories, and having a good time were all on the agenda on August 7th, 8th, and 9th when crew members of the U.S.S. Topeka had their 25th Ship Reunion. Charles Ellsworth of Wilmington got to re-live many experiences from his time in the Navy.

Ellsworth graduated from Wilmington High School in 1944 and joined the Navy directly afterwards. He underwent Troop Boot Camp and Recruit Training, which was very difficult and strenuous for everyone. After that he was assigned to the U.S.S. Topeka. He and a crew of 1400 sailed out of Boston Harbor went to Trinidad and Cuba. After that they returned to Boston, the ship was inspected and flagshipped. The crew then took the Topeka to Panama, through the Canal and into the Pacific. They spent a lot of time off the coast of Japan and then returned home.

Ellsworth was discharged after two years in the Navy. He worked at Gillette Razor Company, and in 1954 joined the Wilmington Police Department. He was there for over 19 years and was appointed Sergeant before, in 1973, he joined the State Police as a Detective Lieutenant. He served as a State Officer until he retired in 1986. Since then Ellsworth has been enjoying his time off and looking forward to the annual reunion.

The reunion is held every year and was started 25 years ago. It lasts about three or four days and consists of a road trip. This year the men drove to Charleston, South Carolina. There were about ninety men at the reunion. "You get to meet people who were on the ship that you never knew because there were so many back then," Ellsworth said.

It was a very sentimental time for him seeing old friends. The hotel that they stayed provided activities, including an informal exchange of "sea stories" on the first night.

"Oh, there were more sea stories than you could bat an eyelash at," Ellsworth said laughing.

The next day there were photographs taken of crew members and group pictures including wives and friends. After dinner, there was a dance in the hotel's lounge. The men also had the opportunity to see some sights from Charleston including Yorktown, Fort Sumpter, and the Citadel. "It's really a good time," Ellsworth said smiling.

Fire deaths on the rise

QUINCY - Reaching the highest death toll since 1990, the number of civilian fire deaths in 1996 increased for the second consecutive year, according to a report released today by the nonprofit National Fire Protection Association (NFPA). The report also shows that the number of fire deaths in the home, which accounted for approximately 81 percent of all U.S. fire fatalities, rose by nearly 11 percent.

"This is certainly disappointing news, but we're hopeful it doesn't signal a long term trend," says Dr. John R. Hall, Jr. NFPA assistant vice president for fire analysis and research. "Fire death rates have generally declined throughout this century, with about 6,000 deaths a year for most of the 1980s. Now we seem to be locked into roughly 4,700 deaths a year. Whatever else is true, the numbers demonstrate that fire still poses a significant problem in the U.S."

NFPA research shows that most Americans believe they're at minimal risk to fire, especially in their homes. Yet even before the fire death toll climbed to 4,990 in 1996, Americans had the highest fire death rate in the industrialized world outside the Soviet bloc.

Meanwhile, there were 25,500 civilian injuries reported in 1996, which reflects virtually no change from last year, although these estimates are considered to be low since many civilian injuries are not reported to the fire service. On the other hand, the injury toll sustained the decline of the previous two years, which were the first significant reductions.

"Sadly, fire is not a serious concern for most Americans, and as long as that attitude persists, so will the thousands of fire deaths that occur in this country each year," said Meri-K-Appy, NFPA's vice president for public education.

Property damage from fire also increased. In 1996, fire departments responded to 1,975,000 fires, roughly the same number as the year before, but the total of $9.4 billion in property damage was 5.5 percent more than the total in 1995. Residential properties incurred as estimated $4.9 billion in property loss, up a statistically significant 13.7 percent, while approximately $4.1 billion in property damage occurred in one and two family dwellings, also a considerable 14.0 percent increase over the previous year.

since NFPA's tracking began in 1977. In addition, the 85,500 arson fires that occurred in 1996 represented a decline of 5.5 percent over the previous year, with property damage from arson totaling $1,405,000,000, a decrease of 14.7 percent.

The full findings of NFPA's report, to be published in the September/October issue of NFPA Journal, address several major strategies to reduce the overall fire death toll. These include more wide spread public fire safety and prevention education; increased use, testing and maintenance of smoke detectors, and practicing and developing home escape plans; much greater use of residential fire sprinkler systems; creation of more fire safe home products; and increased attention to the needs of high risk groups, such as the young, older adults and low income communities.

Dr. Hall notes that new fire safety initiatives, such as regulations requiring child resistant lighters, have worked to reduce fire death rates, but we've yet to see the impact of some promising ideas, like tests for ignition-resistant cigarettes, which are now feasible but have been blocked from implementation.

Furthermore, last year's relaxation of federal standards for children's sleepwear represented a step backward in the movement to improve fire safety.

"The fire safety industry has a great responsibility to keep finding new ways to make the public safer from fire," says Dr. Hall. "However, most fire deaths can be avoided if people practice basic fire safety, so we must continue educating fellow citizens about the real dangers of fire and the necessity of fire prevention."

The National Fire Protection Association has led the way to fire safety since 1896. The international nonprofit organization's mission is to reduce the burden of fire on the quality of life by advocating scientifically based consensus codes and standards, research, and education for fire and related safety issues. The Association publishes a wide variety of technical and educational materials, including the National Fire Codes and is developer of the Risk Watch Curriculum and the Learn Not to Burn Curriculum. NFPA headquarters is in Quincy, Mass. Visit NFPA's home page on the world Wide Web at <http://www.nfpa.org>.

Father Casey to celebrate 50th anniversary mass

TEWKSBURY - The Rev. M. Matthew Casey, O.M.I. will celebrate the 50th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood at a special mass at St. William's Church Sunday, Sept. 7 at noon. A reception in the lower church will follow to which all parishioners and friends of Father Casey are invited.

Fr. Casey, 79, is a product of Lowell's Acre Section. He was born on Adams Street within the shadow of St. Patrick's Church, where he attended the parish grammar school. After graduating from Keith Academy in Lowell, he attended St. Anselm College in Manchester, N.H., leaving after his junior year to enter the seminary of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate. His initial studies were done in Tewksbury at the old Oblate Novitiate building on Chandler Street, which was destroyed by fire in 1959.

After his ordination in Washington, D.C. in 1947, Fr. Casey spent the next 14 years as a foreign missionary in the post-war Philippines, often traveling by horseback to minister to the rural poor. ("Horseback is no place for a city kid!" he notes.) He returned stateside in 1962 and for the next seven years was associated with the Oblate's domestic mission program, first in Indiana, then in Tewksbury. He has spent the ensuing three decades in parish ministry at Oblate parishes in Pennsylvania, South Carolina and Tennessee. He also served on two separate occasions at St. William's in Tewksbury (1978-81 and 1989-95).

Not one to be easily deterred, the hardy septuagenarian (80 in February), rebounded from coronary bypass surgery earlier this year and returned to active duty at the Oblate parish in Dallastown, PA, where he had been serving since 1995. (Fr. Casey considers the Diocese of Harrisburg, PA, his "other" home territory. In addition to his recently concluded assignment in Dallastown, he served as the first Oblate pastor of a parish in Harrisburg from 1970 to 1976 and as an assistant pastor in nearby Marysville from 1981 to 1987.)

After a brief respite at the Oblate Residence in Tewksbury, Fr. Casey will take up his new duties at the Oblate House in Washington, D.C., which will include celebrating mass and hearing confessions at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception.

Five pianists appear at Art Center

By MELISSA VALLERAND

WILMINGTON - Dressed in their finest attire, looking crisp and clean, five nervous, yet confident young piano players took their turns at mimicking a few of the greatest composers of all time. Works by artists such as Chopin, J.S. Bach, Beethoven, Mozart, and Burgmuelle were played in the Wilmington Arts Center on Sunday, August 24th, 1997 at 1:00 P.M.

This piano recital all started when George Bellefontaine, 19, thought it would be a good idea for him and his friends to broaden their horizons. Mr. Bellefontaine is a member of Hart

School, which is associated to the University of Hartford in Connecticut. Studying music for eleven years now, he is not a stranger to the piano. On an average, about eight hours of his day are spent practicing. Someday, he hopes to study abroad in London. In regards to the recital he ultimately organized, he says, "I think it's an excellent opportunity for my fellow pianists to have a solo performance because there's not enough (opportunities) for a soloist."

Among the other performers included Adam Jensen, 12, Robin Diorio, 16, Tim Smith, 16, and Michelle Carvalho, 17. Of the group, some have performed in front of big audiences, while others have practiced only in their own home. Nonetheless, each contributed to a spectacular turnout, as one would probably guess with the loud thundering applause heard at the end of each performance and the looks of appreciation that were plastered on the faces of the audience.

Studying music since the second grade, Robin Diorio is not only a student, but also a teacher as well. Adam Jensen takes lessons from her, while she attends music classes at Boston College. Before the show, Robin looked optimistically on the event. "I think it will be a good experience. I'm a little nervous, because I'll play in front of a lot of people. It might be fun."

The audience loved the effort and the talent of the five promising individuals. The recital was a huge success!

The Wilmington Art Center was filled with music on Sunday as Adam Jensen, Director George Bellefontaine, Tim Smith, Robin Diorio and Michelle Carvalho performed for friends, family and the public in a free piano recital. (photo by Abby Picano)

Message From the Superintendent

I look forward to welcoming you and your children into our schools for the 1997-1998 school year. The Tewksbury School Committee and the Administrative Team have set some impressive goals and high standards for the coming school year. The faculty, staff and administration have directed their efforts during the summer months to develop the action plans to achieve these goals and meet these standards.

I would like to identify four major initiatives for the coming school year.

Tewksbury Memorial High School will implement a new student schedule. This schedule represents the transition from a 48 minute class period to an 84 minute block period. The new schedule will provide teachers and students with the time necessary to engage in a detailed presentation of a given topic. The faculty, staff and administration of the High School should be commended for undertaking this significant effort to restructure the daily program to enhance instruction for our students.

The entire school system will implement a new writing program in September. We have worked very hard on developing students' writing skills in responding to open ended questions on the state assessment. These efforts resulted in a significant increase in student test score performance on the 1996 State Assessment. The new program will further develop students writing skills across all areas of our curriculum.

The New School Building Committee continues to work with Town Boards, the School Administration and the architectural firm to develop the plans for a new elementary school. This school will be located behind the existing Center School. The school will enroll approximately 800 grade five and six children. We expect to "break ground" in December of 1997 and hope to open the school in September of 1999.

A final major initiative is the establishment of an Extended Day Kindergarten Program at the Dewing, Trahan, Center and Heath Brook Schools. This program will provide parents with a high quality, full day kindergarten program. The Extended Day Program will be an extension of our kindergarten program. We will continue to offer both a Before School and an After School Extended Day program. These programs make our schools available to children from 7:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. each day.

The Tewksbury School Committee adopted a new five year strategic plan in June of 1997. The Committee and the Administration met in June to review this plan and to develop the school district goals for the 1997-1998 school year. The goals are organized around five main areas: basic skills, technology, interpersonal skills, physical plant and resources.

Basic Skills - in addition to the work in writing, we will focus on the coordination of the curriculum among the four elementary schools, the development of a Tewksbury Public Schools Basic Skills Assessment and the alignment of our K-12 curriculum with the Massachusetts Department of Education Curriculum Frameworks. A new summer school program was implemented in July of 1997 for students who did not meet the standards of the grade eight curriculum. An after school program will be implemented at the High School to meet the needs of grade nine students who are experiencing academic difficulty.

Technology - This has become an expanded area of our program. During the 1997-1998 school year we will establish research clusters in the libraries of every school, expand our inventories of both hardware and software and provide intensive training for all staff members to enhance their work with students. Two internet courses have been offered this summer. Many of these initiatives will be funded through a Technology Grant from the Massachusetts Department of Education.

Interpersonal - This area addresses the importance of creating and maintaining healthy, productive and positive school cultures. We will continue our efforts to develop alternative school programs for students who disrupt the traditional school environment. A developmental guidance program will be expanded at the Middle School and the High School to help students acquire personal social skills and an ability to work with others. The Town wide Parent Advisory Council will sponsor a three part training series in September of 1997 on the topic of Stress and the effect of stress on academic achievement.

Physical Plant - we will continue to work with the Building Committee and all Town Departments to develop the plans and the construction schedule for the new school. In addition we will attempt to secure the funds necessary to remodel and resurface the parking lots at the Dewing School and the Middle School.

Resources - The faculty and the administration will monitor, evaluate and if necessary revise the block schedule at the High School. We will expand our use of the school department media services and continue to work with the Town Wide Budget Sub-Committee to secure the funds necessary to realize these goals.

We look forward to greeting your children on Wednesday, September 3, 1997 and meeting with you throughout the school year. The home school partnership is critical to the success of our children. Together we can make the 1997-1998 school year a very productive and rewarding year. Thank you for your continued support.

Redmen Corner

Students bring TMHS happenings to the town Gillotte, Lee, Reale join Town Crier staff

By JENNIFER REALE

TEWKSBURY - Welcome to Redmond Corner! This page is dedicated to delivering the latest news from Tewksbury Memorial High School. Every week it will feature a profile about an outstanding member of our school community. Whether they are a member of the student body, faculty, or administration, we will bring their story to you. This page will also keep you up-to-date with both the current and upcoming events at TMHS. This information will be brought to you each week by three students: Sarah Gillotte, Michelle Lee, and Jennifer Reale. This week, we would like to start by giving you a little background information on the writers.

Sarah Gillotte, a Junior, has been active throughout her two years at TMHS, and plans on doing even more in the upcoming year. Sarah has dedicated herself to Tewksbury's Cross Country team since Freshman year, devoting herself during the summer, after-school, and on weekends to compete. Last year, she was chosen to be a member of the Strategic Planning Committee. This hard-working group, made up of both students and faculty, went through the many options that TMHS faced when switching to block scheduling for the upcoming school year. Sarah was a leading voice in deciding which scheduling option would be put into effect. She helped to voice the opinions and concerns of the student body. Sarah plans on joining the Yearbook staff and is interested in contributing to the school's Literary Magazine this year. She also shows an interest, and plans on pursuing a career in communications.

Michelle Lee, also a junior, has been very active in and out of school since Freshman year. She served as Freshman Class President, raising money and planning activities for the Class of 1999. She has played an important role in Student Council since Freshman year as well. Michelle was recently elected Vice-President of the Student Council. She has also been a member of the Scroll, the school's Yearbook, staff. Next year, she will hold the position of Assistant Editor. Michelle has been on the executive board of the North-East Massachusetts Association of Student Councils (NEMASC) for two years. Last spring, she was also elected a delegate to the Massachusetts Association of Student Councils (MASC) Executive Board. There, she represents the NEMASC region and is able to help plan a three-day leadership conference held annually for Student Councils across the state. She served this past year as the Hugh O'Brien Youth Foundation (HOBY) delegate and also attended the National Association of Student Councils (NASC) Conference in Arizona. There, she learned more about her role as a student leader and took pride in representing Massachusetts. Michelle is also part of the track team at TMHS. She volunteers her time as a member of the AIDS Action Committee. Throughout it all, Michelle also manages to play the piano for over eight years, and maintains a class rank within the top five.

Jennifer Reale will also be a junior at TMHS this year. She has been an active member of the Student Council since Sophomore year. As a member, Jennifer plays an important role in planning activities to help increase spirit, involvement, and excellence within TMHS. She also gains and puts into effect her leadership skills by attending both regional and state leadership conferences every year. This past spring, Jennifer was elected Treasurer of the Student Council for the upcoming school year. She was an experienced candidate for this office due to her involvement with the Class Council. During Sophomore year, she served as the Treasurer of the Class of 1999, and helped to raise funds and organize many activities for her class. Also during Sophomore year, Jennifer was a contributing member of the Press, the high school's newspaper. Jennifer has also been a dedicated member of the Renaissance team. She was one of the key members who helped create this group by attending conferences and grueling meetings before and after-school. Renaissance is a system of encouraging students to do their own personal best and rewarding them as they achieve it. Jennifer also loves children and this past summer, she has served as a day camp counselor at St. Robert's Church in Andover. She also volunteers her time as an assistant CCD teacher at St. William's Church. Amid her busy schedule, Jennifer's weekends are kept full by working at Breugger's Bagels in Tewksbury.

We are all looking forward to delivering the latest and most up-to-date information about TMHS directly to you. Hopefully, you will find this page both useful as well as entertaining.

The ABC's of life at TMHS

By MICHELLE LEE

TEWKSBURY - As Labor Day weekend approaches, students at TMHS realize that the first day of school is just around the corner. Although most are sad to say good-bye to all of their summer fun, many are also excited to say hello to a new school year. So as a reminder to all those who are heading back, here a new set of ABC's to describe what life is really like at Tewksbury High.

Academics - the four basics - English, Math, Science, History.
Block scheduling - will it work??!
Classes - only four a day.
Day-dreaming - everyone does it!
Extra-credit - the only way some students survive!
Forgetting to do your homework and doing it on Sunday night.
Graduation - will that day ever come?
Homework, homework, and more homework...

Involvement - one of the keys to success in high school.
Joining a club, sport, or activity...
Keeping track of what's going on... or at least trying to!!!
Lockers - finding a way to stuff everything in them!
Making memories that will last a lifetime...
National Honor Society - a privilege to those who work hard.

On September 3rd, the doors at Tewksbury High will be opened to an excited, yet nervous group of students. For the first time, the Class of 2001 will be entering Tewksbury High, where they will spend most of their next four years. After three years of life at the middle school, the new freshman class will have to adjust to a new world - high school. The rest of the students, the sophomores and the upperclassmen, will be heading back to the same school, but one that is full of changes. There will be a new assistant principal, new teachers on staff, and most importantly, the first year of block scheduling. So as a long school year advances, remember these ABC's. They'll pull you through everything, especially life at TMHS.

Wildcat Happenings

On top of her world

By MICHAEL VITALE

WILMINGTON - One particular WHS Senior is going to have a great year ahead of her. Top ten in her class, three sport athlete, class president, National Honors Society member, and hard working member of the school and community all make up Kristin Flynn. It will be her fourth and final year in high school and she plans to take full advantage of her time left.

Kristin ranks ninth in a class of 157, and that is a major accomplishment. Her academic achievements can only be traced to her hard work and dedication over the years. She has continued to prove that she can handle whatever she needs to. This past May she scored a 1340 on her SAT's. Senior year is not going to be any different for Kristin. She will be carrying a full work load, taking Advanced Placement English and Calculus, Honors Spanish, Anatomy and Physiology, Marketing Management, and Drama. Kristin's favorite, however, is English, and it always has been. "Wilmington has a great English department," she professes. Ms. Joyce Aldrich, English teacher since 1966 in Wilmington, has left a special mark in Kristin. Even though she had Ms. Aldrich as a freshman, she has carried her lessons throughout high school. Taking two A.P. classes and four honors courses will prove to be very demanding for Kristin, especially considering what else she has going for her.

Kristin is involved in the Student Council and the Bread and Roses. The Bread and Roses is a school run program that helps feed the homeless. Now that she is in Marketing Management, she hopes to join Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA). Kristin also draws regularly for the Wildcat News, the school's student newspaper. Kristin is an extremely talented artist, and that was proven this past school year when she won the "Patch Contest," a competition to draw the best logo for Wilmington Soccer. Her design was put on T-shirts and posters. She also received a $100 savings bond for winning.

Kristin is also a very important athlete for the WHS Wildcats. She has been participating in Soccer, Basketball, and Spring Track since Freshman year, and will continue this year. She has been very valuable over the years playing varsity for all her sports since she was a sophomore. This year she is going to be Captain of the Spring Track team and also received the MVP award in track.

This past May Kristin was inducted in the National Honors Society, which is not an easy organization to be accepted to. To be inducted, one must carry a steady 88 average and prove to be a worthy individual through volunteering at least twenty hours in the school or in the community. Kristin has far surpassed twenty hours. She referees every winter for the Wilmington Recreation Department, and this summer worked eight hours every Monday in Lawrence for the United Way, the home base organization that sponsors the Boys and Girl's Club and the Red Cross.

Kristin is also going to be Class President this year for her fellow seniors. She was elected in June, and hopes to make this year great for everyone. "I wanted a chance to use my ideas and just make it fun," she said. She is going to have a lot of activities to plan this year, between all the Senior events, and the Senior Prom, to be held May 15 at the Omni Parker House in Boston. Her goals as President are simple. "I was to get as much money as possible so we won't have to pay so much [for yearbooks, prom tickets, etc.]."

As for after high school, Kristin seems to have a good view down the road. The colleges and universities that she is seriously looking at are Bentley, Babson, Syracuse, Georgetown, and Sacred Heart, with a possible major in either marketing or advertising.

She will miss high school, though. Her most memorable high school memory was the homecoming rally sophomore year. "Everybody had so much school spirit that day, with their faces painted and everything. It was so great."

She says that she is most proud of her family and that her only goal in life is to be successful in whatever she does. She has already got a great head start for that.

"You are Wilmington High School"

By COLLEEN MURPHY

WILMINGTON - On August 21, the Class of 2001 walked through the doors of Wilmington High School for its freshmen orientation. Some were scared, nervous, excited, and some had no feelings at all.

When students walked through the doors of the Herbert C. Barrows Auditorium, they were given locker numbers and combinations, emergency cards, hall passes, and packets of information. The packets contained a lists of administration, a lafter school activities and sports.

The newcomers were first introduced to Edward Woods. Mr. Woods urged them to get involved in their school. He said, "This is just a building, you are Wilmington High." Mr. Woods also explained that students would get back just what they put into Wilmington High School.

The next speaker introduced was Mr. Gillis, head of the WHS Athletic Department. Mr. Gillis also pointed out to students that getting involved is important. He also had students snap their fingers and pointed out to them that, that is how fast high school years go by.

Mr. Michael Nee, who is head of student services, was introduced next. He told the students that every problem is fixable, whether big or small. He told them he would be around the school, and that he would help them out anytime of the day. He also reminded students that no question is a stupid one.

Student Michael Vitali spoke next. He and Mr. Woods, asked the incoming freshmen questions, and awarded school related prizes to those who answered correctly.

The last speaker was new Vice Principal Peter Lucia. He emphasized what Mr. Woods said about becoming involved, and spoke about experiences at Pentucket High School where he was employed prior to coming to WHS.

Following the speakers' remarks, Mr. Woods went over a couple of the school rules. He explained such things as penalties for being late to class, drug possession in school, and losing a book. He also explained some of the shortcuts to getting to class, and a said little bit about the hall monitors.

The last part of the Orientation consisted of a guided tour of the school, which gave students a chance to find some of their classrooms and other places in the school. Then students had the opportunity to find their lockers and attempt to open them. All this is going to make the first day a lot easier for students as well as faculty.

Freshman David Merry said: "I'm excited and a little nervous about coming to the high school. The orientation helped me because I got a feeling of the layout of the school, met kids from the West Intermediate, found my locker and found several of my classes. This year as a freshman I hope to participate in concert/marching band, jazz band, "Wildcat News," and Student Council.

Freshman Amanda Gustin said "I feel nervous about getting lost in WHS, and I am nervous from the change of school and level. The orientation helped me because I figured out where my locker is and how to open it. I met school administration and learned rules. This year, I hope to participate in Odyssey of the mind and field hockey.

Freshmen Orientation was a good learning experience for those who participated. I want to wish the class of 2001 good luck in its upcoming year as freshmen

Street smarts

BOSTON - Back to school means more local traffic and more children crossing congested streets alone. How can one help ensure a child's safety? The pediatricians at Boston's Spaulding Rehabilitation Hospital want to remind area residents of the following tips that will help children deal as safely as possible with traffic.

Prepare kids for crossing streets

1. Teach children about street safety as soon as they can walk outdoors. It is never too early to begin.
2. Children learn traffic safety by watching adults. Go for walks with them and be sure to practice safety measures when crossing a street.
3. Cross streets hundreds of times with children before allowing them to cross even one time alone.
4. Teach children never to run into a street. Show them that before they try to cross a street they must stop at the curb.
5. Once they have stopped at the curb, children should look and listen for traffic. Look left, then right, and then left again.

6. Children should wait to cross until the street clears, and they should keep looking until they've crossed the street safely.

Don't neglect older children when talking about safety. Remind them to use the sidewalk. If there is no sidewalk, they must walk facing traffic and keep to the left. Also, if older children are out at dusk, be sure they wear clothes that can be seen. Fabric and sporting goods stores sell inexpensive reflective tape. Trim their outer garments with it.

Spaulding Rehabilitation Hospital is an affiliate of Partners HealthCare System, Inc., and a major affiliate of Mass. General Hospital. For the third consecutive year, Spaulding is the only rehabilitation hospital in New England named to the list of America's best hospitals by U.S. News & World Report.

Fuel Program
WILMINGTON - The fuel program was funded for 1997-98. I have received a call from Community Teamwork Inc. (CTI) that the fuel program will start on November 1. The qualifying amount of each level has not been finalized at this time. Seniors who qualified for fuel last year will be receiving applications through the mail during the month of September.

When it arrives, check the application to see that everything on the application is the same. If the spouse who had made out the application has passed away, a new application will have to be made in the remaining spouse's name. The application will have to be sent back to CTI, with a death certificate and a copy of your Social Security benefit. That is, the check if you receive it through the mail, or a bank statement with the amount of your Social Security check listed on it.

If you are receiving a pension, a copy of that check will also have to be sent to CTI at that time. Seniors receiving the applications through the mail and do not understand what they have to do may call me at the office, 657-7595. If everything is the same on the application, all one has to do is sign it and mail it back to CTI, as soon as possible.

New seniors wishing to apply for fuel this year, I was told the applications should be ready sometime in October. At that time I will be taking applications on appointment only. If you feel you may qualify for fuel this year, get all the qualifying papers ready now. If you receive your Social Security and pension checks through the mail, before you cash them, take the checks to the Senior Center, 15 School Street and I will copy them for you. If they go to the bank, any statement from January on will suffice as proof of income.

Something to remember when figuring your income qualification. This is probably the only Federal program I know of that is figured on the gross amount of your check. That means when you receive your check the $43.80 for your Medicare has been subtracted from the check. To qualify for this program the $43.80 has to be added to every month. Example if the check you receive is for $600, you will have to add $43.80 to it, for a total of $643.80. This is your gross amount of Social Security benefit.

I will have all the information on the program in this column, as soon as I receive it.

HMO's
 Many questions are still being asked on HMO's. Seniors are confused which one is right for them. There are so many to choose from, and more are starting up every day. As a result of the pressure being placed on the elderly in this country. The Health Care Financing Administration has produced what they are calling an Indispensable Guide for any Medicare beneficiary trying to make their mind up on what HMO is good or bad. This new Guide Publication will help you decide. To get a copy, call the Medicare Hotline, 1-800-638-6833 and request HCFA Publication No. 10934, selecting 7. Before enrolling in any HMO get all the information you can; ask lots of questions and compare to be sure you are getting the best care for the money you will be paying.

WHS Field Hockey preview

Mendoza, defense hope to lead girls into tourney

by JAMIE POTE

Last year, the Wilmington High School varsity field hockey team lost two games all season. One of those losses came against Amesbury in the state tournament, 2-1. After losing six talented seniors from last year's squad, head coach Maureen Noone feels pretty confident that this year's squad can at least get to the state tournament again this fall.

There are three reasons why this team should be very hard to beat. The first is junior goaltender Patrice Mendoza, who according to Noone looks better than ever.

"I think she is the quickest goalie in the league," Noone said as her season will debut on Friday, Sept. 5 at WHS against Newburyport. "I don't make goalies run with their pads on and not only does she do it, but she beats a lot of the other players who don't have pads on."

"Right now she looks as if she is on top of her game. She is more confident and she looks great. Actually, our defense looks pretty good. Karen MacArthur looks great, she has really improved and Katie Gillis and Leanne Bento should solidify the defense," Noone said.

Last year Noone went with a 3-3-3-1 set-up and this year she is going to change it to a 4-3-3 set-up, which will make it more offensive.

Starting with the defensive trio who can all drive the ball up field, it looks as if Noone has a balanced attack. If the trio can hold off the opposition and send the ball up to the midfielders and forwards, like Christine Crowley, Tricia Kane and Jodi MacKenzie to name a few, then the strategy should pay off and perhaps the team can continue its rich tradition.

"The seniors are pretty confident and they should be. They all started as sophomores and right now they know the game a lot better and they all get along which makes so much easier to coach. I think their

Can curse be broken?

by JAMIE POTE

It seems like a broken record at the start of every season for the Wilmington High School boys soccer team since the departure of goal scorer John Lynch.

Since the Bentley College star left the Blue and White in 1991, every season thereafter for head coach Dick Scanlon seems to be the same: a .500 team who works very, very hard; several excellent defenders including usually a very good net-minder; a team who lacks skill and finally and of course, a team who lacks a go-to guy to put the ball in the net.

A lot of that is pure examples of this year's team. However, there are a lot of hopes...hopefully this could be the season that the team goes from a decent all-around team to a good all-around team, by finding that scoring touch.

"The scoring will come," said Scanlon whose team will open up on Sept. 4th at Newburyport at 7:30. "I know we will never score five or six goals in a game, but we will score."

Scanlon seems very optimistic about the season. He has six seniors returning as well as 13 juniors with ten of them with varsity experience and one sophomore with experience. However, he is concerned about one thing.

"I know we're not ready. Our first game is on the fourth and I have never had a game before the eleventh. We have had three scrimmages so far and we are improving after each one, but right now we are ready. I'm concerned about that."

"I'm hoping our scoring problems will come from the entire team and not just one player. The problem is the offensive skills just aren't there yet, they might come, but right now they are not there. Our team is mostly a one-footed team and that can be a liability in different offensive situations," Scanlon continued.

Scanlon uses a diamond system, which is his usual style, when he doesn't have a goal scorer. This system has four defenders, four halfbacks and two forwards.

"When you don't have the prototype goal scorer, then you try to stop the other team from scoring and that's what this system does," Scanlon said.

The team will be led by its tri-captains Chris Kilburn, Tom Heigham and Jeff Arciero. Kilburn is a half-back and he has probably the best individual skills of the three, while, Heigham is pure and simple the hustler who forces things to happen and finally, Arciero is the smooth, heads up kind of player.

"Jeff hasn't played because he broke his knee brace and he has to wait until he gets his next one. We have had a few players missing a few practices or scrimmages due to injuries or other things and that has set us back a little bit. But, I like the way things are going right now," Scanlon said.

Starting with its strengths is inbetween in the posts in junior T.J. Flynn. Flynn came on as a huge surprise last season and Scanlon and the team is expecting him to improve, and if that happens, there will probably be many 1-0 games this season, either way.

In front of Flynn, the team appears to be pretty strong. Arciero, Scott Swiezynski, Sean Cahill, Dan Sweet and Mark DiGiovanni have all switched between stopper and sweeper-back positions and all five players are strong defensively.

As for the half-backs, Scanlon will be using seniors Heigham and Kilburn to control the middle of the field as well as Dave Ward, another solid senior with some speed, and juniors John Betts, Peter Bamberg, Ryan Covino and Kevin Riley.

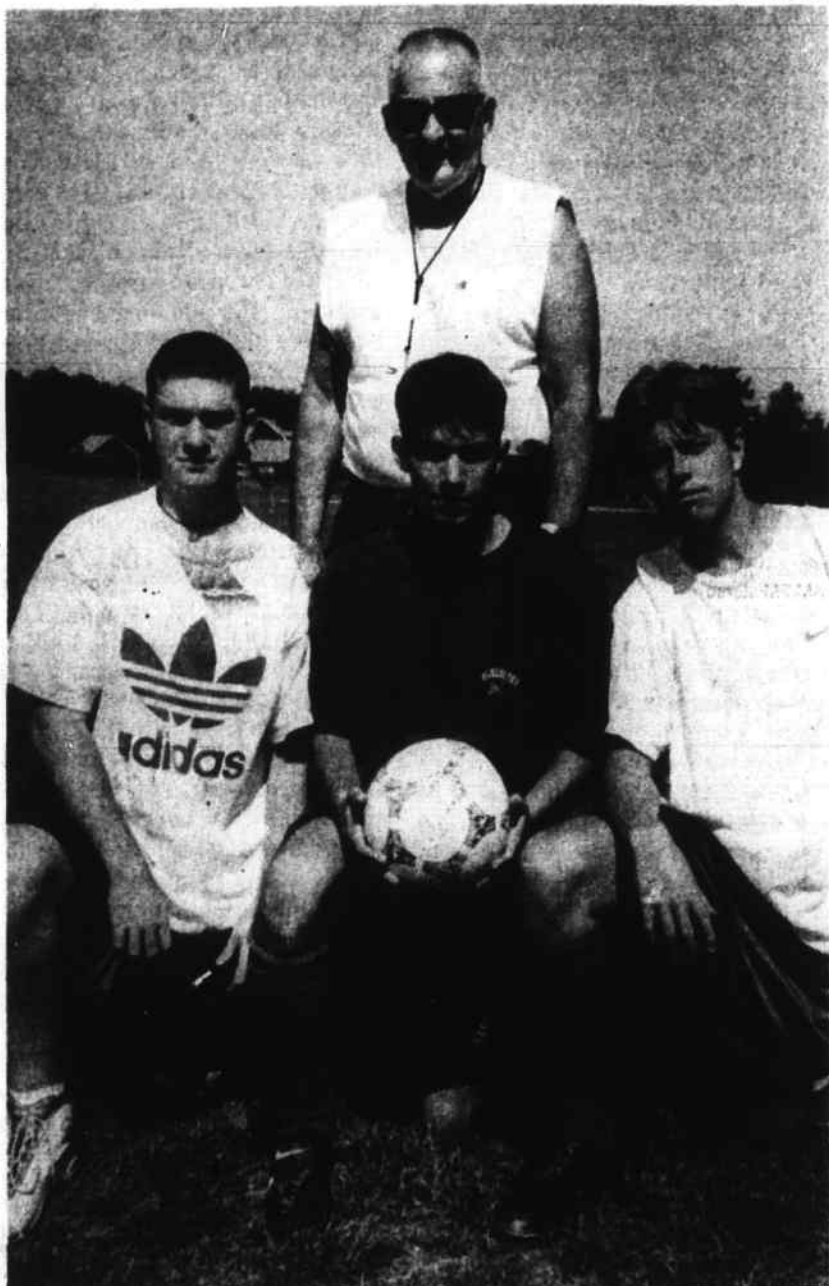

Up front, Scanlon hopes the combination of senior Greg Longo, juniors Justin Vallas and Dennis Ingram and sophomore Darren Arciero can help improve the lack of scoring threats.

"I was pretty happy with what I saw [in the scrimmage on Tuesday against Stoneham]. In the 50 minutes the varsity players played, we probably had ten real good scoring chances and we were trailing just 1-0."

Scanlon also said that junior Anthony Soroka and/or freshman Mike Halas will be fighting for the back-up keeper job, while, several of the junior varsity players will rotate throughout the entire season

FOR SALE BY OWNER--CAN YOU REALLY SAVE?

The virtue of self-reliance is as American as baseball and apple pie except if you are trying to sell your home. Here such a "virtue" can cost you time, effort -- and possibly money. The overwhelming majority of homes that sell are listed with a Realtor, so you will be going against significant odds if you decide to sell your home. The experience of a real estate professional may get you a better price and help you to avoid all the "little" things that can go wrong in real estate transaction. The desire to "save" the commission on a property is the reason most people decide not to work with a Realtor. Prospective buyers who look for properties that are "For Sale By Owner" (FSBOs) are also wanting to avoid the commission -- and to get a less-than-market-value deal. However, nothing is saved in the majority of FSBOs. Listing your home with real estate professional can save you money, spare you the inconvenience of showing your home, and save you the time you would spend talking to buyers who could not qualify for a loan.

WHS Golf Preview Fessenden, team looks to re-load

by Stephen Reptsys

The Wilmington High School Golf team is looking to improve on last year's 10-4 record.

However, they will have to do it without five of their starters from last year, including their number one golfer for the past three seasons, as Bob Torrani was lost to graduation.

But 12 year coach Al Fessenden is optimistic the team will still be extremely competitive.

"Our team will have lots of strengths. Throughout the team, we are evenly balanced and that's so important. We are competitive in all six points, as we have decent golfers," said Fessenden.

A major reason why Fessenden is so upbeat is because Wilmington will have seven starters from last year returning.

"We have a strong core of kids returning who have worked hard during the summer. These kids are prepared. They enjoy the sport and it shows," said Fessenden.

Returning for Wilmington is the lone senior Kevin Considine. Also coming back are juniors Peter Grasso, Shawn Haubner, Dave Senarian, Dan Tocio, Chris Decaro, and Sean Neville.

With a solid nucleus in place, there are only five spots left to fill on the roster for the opening match against Lynnfield on September 4.

With the opening match fast approaching, Fessenden sees the league to be very strong.

"Our league is very competitive. Amesbury looks to be the cream of the crop. Many of the teams will give us good competition and that's good because players play to their level of competition," said Fessenden.

Can course be broken

Josh Michaud will also get some playing time as a defender.

Masco, North Andover and Hamilton-Wenham appear to be the front-runners according to Scanlon, but he firmly believes his squad can right up there with the rest.

"I'm hoping we can win the league and get into the state tournament.

But time will tell on that," Scanlon said.

Plain and simple, if the team can find a scorer or if the team as a whole become a scoring team, then this team will be better than 10-9 like they were a year ago, and better than the one and-out-team in the state tournament like they were a year ago to Austin Prep.

WHS girls soccer preview

More offense, more goals, more victories

by JAMIE POTE

In 1995, the Wilmington High School girls varsity soccer team scored just twelve goals throughout the entire season. And one could count their wins on one hand.

Last year, junior Lisa Dellascio and sophomore Lindsay Bruno combined to score 13 goals, nevermind the rest of the team. Last year's squad finished at 9-9-2 including a win and a loss in the state tournament.

Already this season, head coach Sue Hendee said she is tossing around an idea of having a system that would be more offensive wise. So it's pretty obvious, isn't it? The more goals a team scores, the more victories they will get, right?

"Scoring more goals this season is a priority for us," Hendee said. "I haven't decided what system I'm going to use yet. I have to see who works well with who in the scrimmages and I have to get the positions sorted out as well." Hendee continued as her team will get underway on Thursday, September 4th at 6:00 when they travel to Newburyport with the boys opener following theirs.

Last year, with just four seniors on the team, the Cats beat Pope John in the Division III State Tournament, before bowing out to Weston, in a game that saw pretty much the entire team go down with injuries.

"I would be disappointed if we didn't get into the state tournament this season," Hendee said. "The entire team is getting along really well thus far and that seems to be one of our strengths. We have a lot of players who have experience and that says something when 27 out of your 38 players are freshmen and sophomores.

"I have only seen the team in practice sessions, a lot will be determined in scrimmages (on Wednesday and Thursday of this week). I think a lot of teams will see that we have a lot of underclassmen on our team and they might not expect too much. But, I think we will surprise a lot of teams," Hendee continued.

Starting with the forwards, who Hendee hopes will do the majority of the scoring, Dellascio, Bruno and senior Lauren Senesi return as starters with senior Jennie Reynolds, junior Sabrina Shattuck and sophomore Kristen Kacamburas adding depth. All three of the returners, all benefit with quick legs, good moves and they all work together. Dellascio and Bruno combined for a fantastic duo last season, and if they continue to improve and they get the ball a lot, expect the duo and Senesi to put the ball in the net more than 12 times during the 18 game schedule.

"I might try a 4-3-3 (four defenders, three midfielders and three forwards) set-up or a 4-4-2 set-up. I'm going to fool around with several different set-ups early on to see how we look. I want to get more offense out of this team, starting from the defense," Hendee said.

After the forward crew, comes the midfielders, and this combination is also very young, but with a lot of potential. Seniors Kristin Flynn and Shannon Phillips will be looked upon for senior leadership through the middle, while, junior Kim Hembree, sophomores Sarah Lund, Lauren McCarthy, Nicole McIver and Arlene Muscufo also will be fighting for positions.

"What I really like so far is that a lot of the kids who played junior varsity last year have really improved and stepped it up a notch," Hendee said. "We have a lot of young depth and I feel as if the skill level is so close with a lot of players, that not only can I start any player on any given day, but I will use everyone on the roster the entire season. I would also feel comfortable bringing up a few players from the junior varsity if we had to. If they keep improving, that will help us out a lot."

Speaking of which, Hendee still hasn't made her cuts as of yet. She has 38 players right now and she said she will cut it down to between 18-20 players. She already has one injury as junior Kara Irving, who has miraculously fought off cancer to come back to play soccer, will be out for the season as she tore her M.C.L. in her knee.

Defensively, senior Sara McMahon, juniors Amanda Lojek, Suzanne Berghaus, sophomores Lynn Hurley, Jackie Ingram and Chrystie Ross will be fighting for positions with Flynn also expected to get some time there as well. Lojek, Hurley, Ingram and Ross all saw valuable minutes last year and expect that to happen again this season.

"One of our goals this season is to be competitive with every team. The last two years we have been competitive with every team except Masconomet and North Andover who would blow us away. Those two teams are expected to be at the top again this year. We want to be competitive with every team, not just the ones who we are supposed to be competitive with," Hendee said.

Behind the defenders, is probably the team's best strength, that is in the net. Senior Melissa Mather returns after a superb season, however, the majority of the games she played just a half in the net and then she played in the field the other half, because she is so talented. Sophomores Meredith Cipriani and Val Cwiekowski could start for any other team as well.

"It's very hard when you have three outstanding keepers," Hendee said. "I have no idea what I'm going to do. I talk it over with [assistant coach Mike Schena] every day and neither of us have any idea of what to do as of yet. All three of them are very good and Melissa can play in the field and she likes to, so maybe we might do something like we did last year. Who knows?"

Hendee also has 14 freshmen who are vying for positions including two more keepers in Robin Kanter and Kelly Tavaraz, who both can also play defense. Other defenders include: Christina DeSimone, Lisa Dineen, Cheryl Kelly, Michelle Lemos, Molly Pidgeon and Kara Scola. Jenn O'Brien and Becky Rufo will compete for midfield positions, while, Jennie Michaud, Jenn McGowan, Kristen Pelletier and Michelle Tobin will look to crack the line-up at forward.

It is obvious that this team is very young, especially with just six upperclassmen returning with varsity experience. However, the sophomore crew is very promising; the goaltenders appear to be the team's strong point and that never hurts; the combination of Bruno-Dellascio could be devastating and finally, having the leadership of Flynn, Mather, Senesi and Phillips should boost the moral.

If this team is going to do any damage they have to do a few things: stay healthy; score goals; provide solid defense in front of whoever is in the net; and finally, score goals.

COMPUTER COVERAGE

QUESTION: My business is completely dependent on computers. It would be a catastrophe if I had a failure. Is there insurance I can get for this situation?

ANSWER: There are four types of coverage available. One is for data processing equipment and computer parts, the so-called "hardware." Another is for data processing media, including magnetic tapes, discs, drums and other communication forms, better known as "software." A third is for extra expenses to continue operations in the event of damage to the computer system. A fourth basic coverage is for business interruption resulting from a total or partial cessation of the data processing system.

A day of shark fishing

by Ed Larkin

Captain Jon Perette and I glanced out over the harbor. Looking east, as far as the eye could see, thick, gray clouds filled the horizon. The wind flag over the Harbor Master's house stood stiffly in the wind. "This is your call. It could be a real rough day out there with lots of rolling water," said the Captain. "Although, I will say the sharks seem to like the sharks seem to like this type of weather."

After a few moments of discussion with my companions, we decided to go forth with a day of shark fishing out on Wild cat Knoll. Located forty miles East/Northeast of Scituat, this area of salt water is teeming with wildlife. Everything from whales to migrating sea birds.

Captain Perette cleared the no wake zone of the harbor and eased the 35 foot Marlin sportfish into cruising speed. In a matter of seconds, we were skipping along on the top of waves at 50 plus mph. In a matter of 40 minutes, the boat eased to a troll and we began our chum slick.

The chum slick is made up of fish pieces and fish oils. The scent is easily picked up by any sharks in the general area. Rich Lynam, the first mate, busily prepared baits and set the lines into the chum slick. There are many ways to bait for shark. Captain Perette chose strip baits on a large Mustad hook.

Floating 30 to 40 feet off the stern of the boat in four to 12 feet of water, the baits floated in an enticing swimming motion. In a matter of minutes, the balloon acting as a float and marker popped free from the line. In a flash, the mate set the hook and passed the rod off to my buddy Rich.

Rich quickly placed the rod in the waist holder and waited as the mate locked the rod into the stand up rig. The second and large Blue Shark felt the tug of the drag, it shot down to the depths, leaving Rich hanging on for dear life.

Soon after Rich got control of the situation, another blue bomber tried to rob a bait and we had a double hook up. The reality of the power of these fine creatures soon bit Brian as the blue shark pulled him from port to starboard in what seemed like an endless dance for control.

The range of size in these sharks ran between four feet all the way up to nine feet. The bigger ones close to the 225-300 pound range. At one point, my friend Jay stood bent over the bow trying to work the shark back to the side of the boat so we could release him. Before the shark ever broke the surface, Jay did two laps around the boat and brought in quite a bit of line before this beauty returned to the deep.

All day long the blue sharks kept coming up the chum line. By the end of the day, a total of 22 blue sharks were caught and released. These scrappy fighters arrive when the summer water warms up and provide excellent angling action. Although not common, Mako sharks occasionally show.

an angler the ride of a lifetime. Other sharks known to frequent New England waters include the Probeagle and on occasion the Great White.

Our captain is a fly fisherman. He allowed me to cast his heavy 14 weight Orvis rod for a blue bomber in the chum slick. I did hook into a couple and enjoyed a few great minutes of fight, but lost the blue sharks when they wrapped around the fly line and the shark's abrasive hide cut through the line.

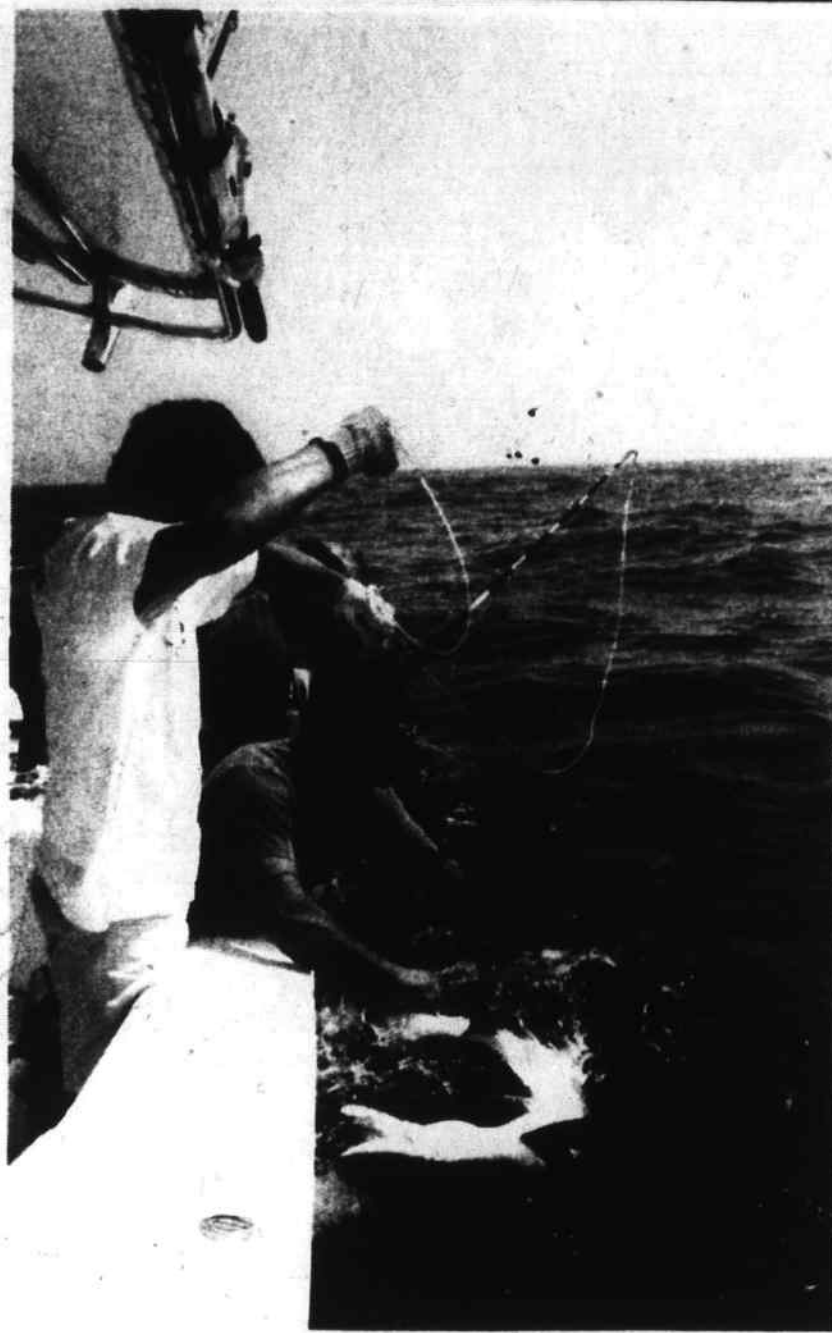

A good charter is a combination of many things. The first is taking the time to research all the aspects of the type of fishing you are planning to do. The second is finding a knowledgeable skipper and last, a bit of luck.

I used a network for fishermen I have met at various times and they pointed me to Captain Perette and his fine boat, the Katmandu. He entertained my many questions and explained the way he operated. On the day of the charter, everything fell neatly into place.

The most important thing to do to ensure a mutually good experience is to find a captain who meets your needs. Make sure you ask a lot of questions. If the captain is too impatient to give you answers, find someone else.

Thanks again to the Captain Jon Perette and his first mate Rich Lynam. You run a great fishing trip. I look forward to fishing with you in Florida in the near future.

Don't forget the Hunter's Education Course stating on September 4 at 7 p.m. at the Tewksbury Rod & Gun Club. For more information contact Master Instructor George Rost at 508-841-6268.

Here Captain Jon Perette is about to reel in this shark.

Here the shark goes berserk as Perette tries to reel it in.

Charity baseball game for the blind set for Sept. 20th

LOWELL - The Lowell Association for the Blind "Hawkeyes" will play a Charity Beep Baseball game Saturday, Sept. 20, against teams of area political, governmental and community leaders.

The game will be played at Alumni Field in Lowell, on Route 38, Roberts St., at 2 p.m. The game of beep baseball is played with audible balls and audible bases, and every player is blind-folded. Admission is only $5 per person and children under 12 are free.

Plans call for the game to feature an appearance by the Lowell Spinners "Canalator," the Lowell High School cheerleaders, and many of the region's well known government and political leaders are expected to play opposite the LAB Hawkeyes. Rotary Clubs and Lions Clubs from the region are also forming teams to play an inning. The Hawkeyes team is made up of blind and visually impaired members who are active in the Lowell Association for the Blind, and who enjoy outdoor recreation activity. Some of the members will be from the LAB Youth Social Recreation Program, comprised of young people whose ages range from seven years old up to 19.

The game of beep baseball is played with a team using its own sighted pitcher and catcher who throw the audible ball to help the hitter get a hit. Once the ball is hit into the field, the batter runs to an audible base on either the first or third base line, and if the batter reaches base before a fielder finds the audible ball, lifting it up over their heads, then a run is scored. The Lowell Association for the Blind Hawkeyes is the only team ever formed in Northern New England, but there are many competitive teams in the south and southwest U.S.

Additional information on the game, or information on how one can play, is available by calling 508-454-5704 and tickets can be obtained by writing LAB at 174 Central St., or stopping in at the office Monday-Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

attitude will take them a long way," Noone said.

The midfield crew appears to also be very strong. Seniors Catherine Townsend, Crowley and Julie Yentile will get the first crack and all three of them are solid players with some speed and most of all, intelligence. And if the midfielders can do their job, then it should become easier for forwards like Jodi MacKenzie to improve on her 12 points from last season.

"I think we will do very well. I'm hoping we will be over .500 and we will win the league. But, it won't come easy, there are many great teams in this league. I have changed a lot of positions of the players and I'm hoping that will eventually be a strength. We have a solid group of players who play it smart and if the midfielders can run and make things happen, then I don't think it will be too long before the forwards click," Noone said.

Besides MacKenzie and Kane upfront, sophomore Lauren Holloway should also get some time there as well. The final spots on the team are not final as of yet, but Noone said sophomore Katie Holloway and freshmen Kara Largone, Katie Chisholm, Maura Lynch, Jen DeSimone and Lauren Allaby are all fighting for positions.

Atty. Victor Fanikos' Uncle Jimmy is a tailor and a Greek Scholar. Stephen Rappa brought a pair of torn trousers to him and was asked, "Euripides?" "Yes," Stephen replied, "Eumenides?"

Well Folks, I just lost one reader. My Aunt Nora, looking over my shoulder as I'm typing, ran out of the room mumbling "I don't believe you'd write something as stupid as that!"

My friend Blackie Vega told his doctor, "every morning when I get up I look in the mirror and I look awful. Tell me doctor what's wrong with me?" "There's not a thing wrong with you. Your Eyesight is Perfect!" Joe D'Ambrosio told me,

"Chipper, when I worked at the Pine's River Fish Store, I found your Woodchips Column perfect for wrapping fish."

Wakefield agency asks

Disasters! Are You Prepared?

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

Are you prepared in the event of a tornado? What about an earthquake?

Perhaps you are one of those people that are not worried about these events because they never happen in this area.

Perhaps you would like to guess again. Granted it is unusual for an earthquake or a tornado to touch down in most of the Middlesex East reader-ship area. But it is possible.

In fact Northeast States Emergency Consortium (NES-EC) Executive Director Edward Fratto warns "The impact of an earthquake would be a lot greater here than in California because of the soil conditions and the density of the population."

He notes that the same problem is true of tornadoes here as opposed to the mid-west. According to Fratto, Massachusetts has a well defined tornado alley that starts in the southern part of Worcester County and extends in a line to northern Essex County.

Fratto said that Massachusetts ranks 35 on the list of Tornado prone areas, which is fairly low. However, the state ranks 16 in fatalities, 21 in injuries and 12 in property damage.

He added that the last significant earthquake with Massachusetts as the epicenter was the Cape Ann Earthquake of 1755. An estimated 20,000 people in Boston alone were affected and even more along the North Shore.

Since 1982 three moderate size earthquakes (4.5 to 6.0 on the Richter Magnitude Scale) have occurred in the northeast. The first was in 1982 in central New Brunswick and that was followed by another in central New Hampshire. In 1983 northern New York received the earthquake jolt.

"Where an earthquake has occurred in the past," Fratto said, "another one is likely to occur."

the Earthquake prone areas throughout the country and set up agencies such as NESEC to educate people on steps that can be taken to reduce loss.

Fratto describes NESEC as "...a disaster awareness and emergency management agency."

The Consortium covers all of the New England states and has just taken New York state under

TERMS TO KNOW

HURRICANE WATCH:

Hurricane conditions are a real possibility for an area.

HURRICANE WARNING:

A hurricane is expected for an area within 24 hours.

BEGIN PRECAUTIONARY ACTION AT ONCE.

AT HURRICANE WARNING FOR YOUR AREA:

- 1 Listen for weather updates and stay informed.
- 2 Keep portable radio and flashlight on hand—with fresh batteries.
- 3 Clear your yard of all loose objects.
- 4 Move your boat to safe harbor and moor securely. Do not stay with boat.
- 5 Store drinking water in clean containers.
- 6 Shut off or board all windows and secure double-door entrances.
- 7 Plan your evacuation route, know where to go, and fill your car's gas tank.
- 8 IF TOLD TO EVACUATE—DO SO IMMEDIATELY! Take your HURRICANE EVACUATION KIT. Turn off water, gas, and electricity only if it is safe to do so and time permits.
- 9 DO NOT ENTER EVACUATED AREAS UNTIL LOCAL OFFICIALS HAVE TOLD YOU IT IS SAFE TO DO SO.
- 10 Evacuate manufactured (mobile - trailer) homes for more substantial shelter.

It is this philosophy that brought about the conception of agencies such as NESEC. Fratto said that the group was first formed as the New England States Earthquake Consortium and was based in Portsmouth, NH.

NESEC was born out of the National Hazardous Earthquake Reduction Act. The Act called for the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) to conduct a study of its umbrella.

With the addition of New York, the acronym NESEC was able to be kept by changing the name from New England States Emergency Consortium to Northeast States. The number of people affected jumped from 13 million to 31 million.

Just because we are not used to tornadoes and earthquakes does not mean that Fratto and Deputy Director Robert Sullivan Folks, on my recent vacation trip to the Maritime Islands I stopped in Halifax Nova Scotia to visit a former boatbuilder with whom I worked in the Boston Naval Shipyard. His name is Henry Brown and I was just in time to attend his birthday party. He still has that wonderful sense of humor, for he got up and said, "thank you all, if I knew I was going to live this long, I would have taken better care of myself."

I asked Paul Simon, "Paul, did you ever get an answer to your first letter to the Corinthians?" Paul smiled and said, "No Chipper, that's why I'm going to send another letter."

Knock on wood, I'm glad I'm Not superstitious but, when my purchase came to exactly thirteen dollars I told Jon Norton (the clerk) "I have to buy something else." Jon smiled and said, "Chipper, there is no power in numbers. Remember what Mary Eddy Baker said, 'there's no power apart from God. Omnipotence has all power and to acknowledge any other power is to dishonor God.'"

I told Bob Burns at the Elks, "My wife doesn't appreciate me, does yours?" "I don't know," Bob replied, "I never heard Martha mention your name."

My favorite comic strip writer is Bob Thaves who said in Frank and Ernest, "Whenever I watch the six o'clock news I wonder how the world will ever make it to the 10 o'clock news."

Victorian Fair September 18

The Victorian Melrose Society will be represented at the Victorian Fair in downtown Melrose on September 13 by members of the Society dressed in vintage clothing. They will greet visitors and provide them not only with information about the history and activities of the Society, but also have available a schedule of Victorian teas for the coming season.

They will have Victorian Melrose T-shirts for sale and will also be selling raffle tickets, all to help support the varied activities of the Society.

Among the raffle prizes are two baskets with all the essentials for your own tea-for-two: a teapot, two cups and saucers (antique bone china), and several varieties of tea. Other prizes include decorated miniature Christmas trees, fairie wands (handmade Victorian sachets), and a pair of tickets to the Pink Tea in February.

The Pink Tea is a four-course high tea (light supper with teas appropriate for each course) complemented with live entertainment. The name derives from the dominant color of the decorations, treats and traditional dress for the Valentine season.

For more information about the Society or to be put on the mailing list call Barbara Gilchrist at 617-665-9672.

Getting Younger all the time

'Superior...in the middle'

The Selectmen announced their approval of a salary increase for Town Administrator Tom Younger that will raise his salary to $71,000 by 1998," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

Younger's current salary is $65,000. Effective October 1, this will increase to $67,000.

"On Jan. 1, 1998, Younger will receive another raise, to $69,000 and on April 1, 1998, his salary will reach $71,000.

"In addition, the modification to Younger's salary agreement allows the T.A. to buy back up to one unused week of vacation time, said Selectmen Chairman Brad Jones.

"Jones recalled that when Younger was hired, the Selectmen made a consensus decision to bring in the new T.A. at a lower step on the salary scale than previously budgeted.

"Jones said Younger's raises were in recognition of his superior performance. But they still put the town 'in the middle range' of the salary scale compared to area towns, he said.

"Jones added that in his opinion, the Town Administrator should be the highest salaried employee in general government.

"The vote in favor of Younger's raise was 4-0. Selectmen Ernest Doucette was absent, but in favor of Younger's raises, according to Jones.

"Younger was hired in April of 1995. His contract runs through June 30, 1999."

Business changes approved

"...The view along Montvale Avenue in Stoneham should be changing over the coming months..." notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"The Community Hospital of Eastern Middlesex, Inc. recently purchased a parcel of land adjacent to its current location at 48-50 Montvale Ave. and was petitioning the board to approve construction of a parking lot on that parcel, as well as a one story addition to the current building next door.

"The additional space is needed to house a second linear accelerator used in the treatment of cancer patients. After addressing issues of radiation safety, traffic sight lines, and compensation for lost tax revenue, the board unanimously passed the motion.

"The treatment center's neighbors up the street, the Showtime Dinner Theater, Incorporated, were also present at Tuesday's meeting. The theater group, which intends to lease Montvale Plaza at 54 Montvale Avenue, was seeking to gain approval for a new liquor license. The previous licensee at that site had filed for bankruptcy and thus the license had been suspended. Although the board applauded this effort to re-open Montvale Plaza and attract corporate business to Stoneham, several concerns were voiced by both the Selectmen and the public.

"The primary concern is the lack of handicapped accessibility to the building, which is largely a result of its construction in the early 70's, prior to enactment of ADA laws calling for some measure of 'reasonable accommodation.' In addition, concerns about adequate parking space and payment of back taxes on the property were addressed. The board voted, again unanimously, to grant the license and elicited a promise from the theater group to explore viable alternatives which would make their facility more accessible to disabled individuals. The license will not be renewed if the aforementioned 'reasonable accommodation' is not achieved...."

Burlington web site is now accessible

"Those with access to the World Wide Web can now view information about the town, as Burlington's web site is in operation," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Selectman Robert Marrano said at a recent meeting of the board that the page is in operation, though it will be going through some changes.

"There are eight sponsors who are financing the site.

"The page includes statistics about the town, maps, and photos.

"The address is: www.Burlington.org."

Pops concert in North Reading

North Reading's own Community Band will perform their second outdoor pops concert of the summer Thursday, August 28, at 6:30 pm in the Gazebo on the common.

Judith Allen will direct the twenty piece band in a 1 1/2 hour program. The concert is free to the public. Colonial Manor Realty of 133 Park Street, North Reading will sponsor the event. Bring a blanket or lawn chair.

Their first concert helped open the Ipswich River Park at the other bandstand in town. To mark that event Ms. Allen chose a repertoire evoking water themes. The tunes ran the musical spectrum from classical to pop, from a concert band arrangement of Handel's "Water Music" to "Down by the Riverside" including a short ride on Jerome Kern's "Showboat."

Next Thursday's selections promise the same variety.

North Reading has always been the home to this band, but many members come from surrounding communities. Sponsorship for concerts has typically come from outside the town too, but since it was formed in 1980, the band has given an average of two free concerts per year to the town.

Rehearsals are Thursday nights from 8 to 9:30 pm during the school year in the LGR at the junior high. New members are always welcome and for further information or summer rehearsal schedule contact Phil Norris at 664-2422.

Disasters

have little to do. The northeast is beset by a number of hazards including hurricanes, flooding, and winter storms.

Preparedness for these natural calamities also come under the aegis of NESEC.

"In some aspects," Fratto said, "You can be better prepared for earthquakes if you are prepared for more common hazards."

He noted that preparations usually stem around common sense approaches.

"You can't do anything to prevent a disaster," Fratto said. "You can lessen the effects."

People in this area may want to start preparing themselves for the possibility of a hurricane hitting the area.

The season starts in June and continues until November. However, in the northeast the end of August and the month of September hold the most potential for the circular, high wind, water laden storms.

According to Fratto, this is the time period "when the weather is warm enough to fuel the storm."

He said, "The 1930 hurricane was the last real devastating one that made it inland."

Fratto said that a storm that makes it inland carries extremely high winds which can wreak havoc on an area.

The recent strikes of Bob and Gloria were noteworthy for their coastal attacks and extended power outages respectively.

As we are heading into hurricane season we lose the potential for being hit by a tornado in the northeast. The peak months are July and August when the warm weather fuels the funnel clouds. However, Fratto warns that hurricanes can fuel small tornados.

Tornados have been known to appear in June and in November as well.

The northeast area, like most of the rest of the country is very prone to flood situations.

Fratto said, "Flooding is the number one hazard in the country. It causes the most danger."

The United States Weather Service can provide warnings for hurricanes, winter storms, flooding and with the advent of Doppler Radar, can now even provide some warning for tornados. In all cases the warnings start out with a watch situation.

When the area is under a Tornado Watch people should be alert the tornados are possible in the area. A warning means that a tornado has been sighted or indicated by radar and preparations should be taken.

This would mean going to a basement or an area away from windows on the lowest level of the house or building. If you are in a mobile home, get out and find shelter elsewhere.

A Flood Watch means that flood conditions are a real possibility. A warning means that conditions are occurring or are imminent for an area.

At that point high ground should be sought.

Again with a hurricane a watch means that the possibility is there. A warning means that it is imminent within a 24-hour period.

A winter storm has four phases. The first is the watch that severe winter storm conditions may affect the area. This is followed by the warning meaning that severe winter conditions will affect your area.

In addition a Blizzard Warning may be sounded to alert people to the fact that "falling and or blowing snow with sustained winds of at least 35 miles-per-hour will affect your area."

A travellers warning means that winter conditions make driving inadvisable for the area.

NESEC has almost completed a project that is providing all of the school districts in their region with alarm activated weather radios. Funding and other support for the radios has come from Cellular One, Radio Shack, Hasbro and Northeast Utilities system.

One radio is given to each school district and the authorities in that district can then determine the best way to disseminate the pertinent information. The radio remains silent until an alarm tone activates it assuring that the warning will not get lost in the noise factor.

The cost of the radios is $20 and some funding is still needed to provide radios for all of the 876 school districts in the Consortiums area. Tax deductible donations for one or more radios can be sent to: The Northeast States Emergency Consortium, 607 North Avenue, Suite 16, Wakefield, MA 01880.

If you wish to get more information about NESEC or receive the handy tip cards for the various climatic conditions, write to the above address or call (617) 224-9876.

Middlesex East Sports Athletes & Activities

BY PAUL FEELY

When the UMass-Lowell women's soccer team takes to the field on September 2 against UMass-Boston, there will be a few players from the local area on the roster.

Lynnfield's Kellie Downs has been practicing with the team, along with Andover's Shira Hermosa, a sophomore. Jennie Murnane, also from Andover, and Billerica's Jackie Maclean are also on the preseason roster. Head coach Kris Eckert assumes the reins for the first time this year after serving as an assistant coach at Boston College.

•THIS WEEK'S MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS TRIVIA QUESTION - What is the maximum weight permitted for calves in rodeo calf-roping competition (there's one sport you probably never thought you'd see featured in this column)? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•BURLINGTON'S PETER CZEREPAK, a junior, is on the men's soccer preseason roster at Wesleyan University. He was a 1996 letter winner for the team.

All teams play four games under the tournament's round robin format, and all games are officiated by Massachusetts IAABO officials.

There are openings for girls and boys teams in grades 5,6,7,8 and 9. Teams on all levels of ability are welcome. Efforts are made to match teams on the same ability level.

Each year the 200-team field includes teams from all six New England states, plus New York. All entries are accepted on a first-come basis.

The following is a list of sites and dates:

•Nov. 9 and 11 at Reading - Fifth grade boys, sixth grade boys, sixth grade girls;

•ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The maximum weight is 350 pounds for calves in rodeo calf-roping competition. Congratulations to those who answered the question correctly, and look for this space next week to find another sports-related trivia question.

•DO YOU KNOW SOMETHING WE DON'T? If you have information about a local athlete that you would like to see appear in this column, please mail it to: Paul Feely, Middlesex East Sports, P.O. Box 240, Reading, MA 01867, or call Paul at 617-944-2200 between 7 am and 3:30 pm, Monday through Friday. Items can also be faxed at 617-942-0884.

Keep exercise comfortable

Hot and humid weather should not prevent regular exercise, according to Boston Regional Medical Center (BRMC) Exercise Physiologist Ray Whelan.

Whelan said by taking a few simple measures, you can maintain a healthy routine and avoid heat exhaustion or sun over-exposure.

"Don't let the heat keep you from exercising," said Whelan, "Heat may be a hurdle, but it should not be a roadblock."

Whelan offers these tips for summer exercise:

Find something you enjoy. Walking, biking and swimming are common and fairly easy forms of exercise.

Exercise before 10am or after 6pm to avoid high sun.

If possible, exercise in air-conditioned, indoor facilities. Many shopping malls hold walking programs before the stores open.

Do not exercise in temperatures greater than 95 degrees.

On very humid or hot days, cut the intensity of your workout to avoid heat exhaustion.

Keep hydrated before, during and after exercise. Drink one to two cups of water one half hour before you start.

Allow for heat loss by wiping the sweat from the body and by wearing light-colored, loose-fitting clothing.

The German American Club of the North Shore presents the annual OKTOBERFEST of 1997 at "Cy Tenney Club", 35 Johnson Street, West Peabody. It will be held on Saturday, September 6, from 11am to 11pm and Sunday, September 7, from 12noon to 6pm.

Admission is $5 per person and children under 12 are free.

This year, the Club is celebrating the 20th Anniversary of being in existence here on the North Shore, and this Oktoberfest has been celebrated for almost as many years.

Twins Club changes name to Parents of Multiples

Effective immediately, the North Suburban Chapter of the Mothers of Twins Club has voted to change the organization's name to Parents of Multiples. Says President Kelly Miskis.

"The reason for the new name is to better describe who we are today. We support many families with triplets and quadruplets thus the term 'twin' is no longer the best description. We decided on using 'Parent' instead of 'Mother' to recognize the growing number of fathers participating in club activities. Raising multiples is a family affair for many of us."

Suburban communities. Meetings are conducted the third Tuesday of each month at the Saugus YMCA. A Support Group is held from 7-8pm for parents with multiples age 18 months and younger. The monthly club activity meeting is held from 8-9:30pm.

Membership for the club is $20 a year and is free for expecting families of multiples. Membership includes the local and national newsletters, all club meetings, access to the multiples Library and weekly playgroups. For more information contact Peg Doyle at 508-664-3205.

Miskis continues, "we are very excited to kick off the year in September with a carnival atmosphere for members to sell toys, equipment and clothes. Throughout the year we will have guest speakers to address specialty topics such as behavior of multiples and how to plan ahead for multiple college tuitions."

Kayaking the Coves of Gloucester Harbor: Sunday, Sept. 14, 8am-1pm

The rocky coves of this sheltered harbor are a paddler's and naturalist's delight. Diving in the surf may be a group of harlequin ducks, or we may find a flock of eiders floating in the calmer water. The rocks off Mass. Audubon's Norman's Woe Wildlife Sanctuary in Magnolia provide roosting sites for large numbers of cormorants, while purple sandpipers feed in the rockweed on the surf-swept rocks. Join us on the adult kayaking adventure of this beautiful area with experienced guides from Essex River Basin Adventures and naturalists from the Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary. First-time paddlers are welcome! Instruction will be provided along with all equipment. A list of suggested items to wear/bring will be sent. Meets at Mass Audubon's Endicott Regional Center in Wenham. Limited to 12. Advance registration required. FEE: $72 ($60/Mass Audubon members). We will travel by vans to our put-in access and enjoy a special breakfast along the banks of the river. We provide all equipment. Participants must have basic canoeing skills and be able to swim. Limited to 18. Advance Registration required. FEE: $60 ($50/Mass Audubon members). For more information call the Ipswich River Sanctuary at 508-887-9264.

Dance Complex II opens in North Reading

Dancer, teacher, choreographer Paula Terenzi, owner and director of The Dance Complex in Malden, will be opening The Dance Complex II in North Reading this September. Dancing since the age of two, Ms. Terenzi has many accomplishments to her credit. As a dancer, she was the first dancer in the United States to receive a Gold Medal in ballet, tap and jazz by the National Dance Council of America, a national dance champion and past pageant title holder. She is the immediate past president of the Dance Masters of America, New England Chapter #5 and "certified by test to teach". She is also a member of the Dance Teachers Club of Boston. Ms. Terenzi has had the opportunity to be the producer of the Miss Massachusetts Pageant, a preliminary to Miss America for 10 years as well as the originator of the Suffolk County Jr. Miss

Program. Presently, she is the director of Dance Camp, an educational three day overnight camp program held in New Hampshire, with an outstanding faculty, mixing dance training with pleasure.

Ms. Terenzi plans to bring to the community her knowledge and expertise in the performing arts. Her curriculum will include ballet, tap, jazz and acrobatic for all ages and levels. She plans specialty classes in lyrical, musical theater, and introduction to modeling classes. Also scheduled, will be a competition program for the serious dancer. "It is important for students to become aware of the levels of dance. As in any sport, one should achieve for the highest goals. It is always important to strive for the best you can be. Although everyone dances for different reasons, for pure enjoyment or for making it a career, it is important to maintain a healthy body and active mind." Ms. Terenzi also states "Competition is not for everyone, therefore, the Dance Complex offers a variety of class levels to meet everyone's needs."

Paula has trained students to become regional and national dance champions, medal test recipients, scholarship winners, pageant and dance title holders, and professional dancers where her students have been seen dancing in Disney, Tokyo, Florida, Busch Gardens, Hershey Park and cruise ships around the world.

Presently, The Dance Complex is home of Suffolk County's Jr. Miss, Boston's Miss and Mr. Dancer of the Year from Rhee Gold's American Dance Awards, and Mr. Dance of New England 1996.

Although Ms. Terenzi trained in the Boston area under the direction of her mother, Eleanor Rubino (who recently celebrated her 50th dance recital), she has travelled to California, Canada and New York to further her dance training. She has taught master classes throughout New England and has judged in the North East United States for regional and national competitions.

She now resides in North Reading with her husband, Richard Byrne, owner of Byrne's Tang Soo Do Karate Studios where The Dance Complex II will be located at 211 Main Street, Route 28, North Reading.

Further information concerning dance classes may be obtained by calling 508-664-1870.

Telethon gives regards to Broadway

Performances from seven popular Broadway musicals and the Irish musical show "Riverdance" will be a highlight of the Jerry Lewis MDA Labor Day Telethon.

Some of theater's top dancers will entertain more than 75 million viewers of the nation's best-known live television fund-raiser with funk, ragtime, tango and Irish folk dancing during the August 31-September 1 broadcast. Singers and actors from the Broadway classics "Damn Yankees," "Show Boat" and "Annie," as well as the contemporary "Rent," will help turn the studio at CBS Television City in Hollywood into a spot on the Great White Way.

The Jerry Lewis MDA Labor Day Telethon, broadcast by some 200 television stations nationwide, will bring viewers 21 1/2-hours of nonstop entertainment and vital information about the Muscular Dystrophy Associations fight against 40 neuromuscular diseases. The Telethon begins at 9pm EDT on Sunday, August 31.

"Broadway performers are the greatest, most giving people I've ever met," said Lewis, MDA's national chairman and star of the Telethon. "I'm thrilled that our Telethon will bring their exciting performances into the homes of tens of millions of Americans, giving viewers a taste of the best that American theater has to offer."

Lewis is taking leave this month from his starring role in the London stage production of "Damn Yankees," the hit Broadway revival that opened in 1995. Four actors from the play's Washington Senators baseball team will sing "You Gotta Have Heart" as an introduction of nationally renowned heart surgeon and MDA Vice president Dr. Michael E. DeBakey.

The MDA Telethon frequently features scenes from current Broadway hits. In addition to these special theater offerings, the Telethon will present dozens of favorites for music, comedy, film, sports, and television. The Telethon will also feature reports on progress in MDA's worldwide research program and its comprehensive service program. The Jerry Lewis MDA Labor Day Telethon is MDA's most important fund-raising event.

MDA is a voluntary health agency working to defeat 40 neuromuscular diseases through the programs of worldwide research, comprehensive services, and far-reaching professional and public health education. Consistently recognized by financial, general and non-profit sector media for its efficiency, the associations programs are funded almost entirely individual private contributors.

For referrals to any of MDA's 230 clinics nationwide, or for information about the associations programs call 1-800-572-1717. Information is also available electronically through MDA's home-page on the Internet (<http://www.mdausa.org>) where, for the first time, cyber-donors can help advance the battle against neuromuscular diseases with electronic contributions to the Telethon and MDA using AT&T SecureBuy Service.

Drugs and alcohol in the 90s

"It's been 30 years since the Summer of Love, but the drug use associated with that era is not a thing of the past," notes the "Lynnfield Villager."

"A survey conducted by Lynnfield's Health Advisory Committee mirrored national trends when it revealed that 65 percent of 11th grade females at Lynnfield High School and 49 percent of 11th grade males say they have smoked marijuana."

Experimentation 'typical'

"The findings didn't bowl over Sheri Allard, the Lynnfield Public Schools' K-12 health coordinator who supervised the administration of the survey, notes the "Lynnfield Villager"

1pm, 2:30pm, and 4pm each week. Admission is $7.50 for adults and $5 for ages 6-17. Free admission for children under 6. A free tour of SALEM 1630 is included in the admission price.

SALEM 1630: Pioneer Village is located in Forest River Park at the junction of Routes 114 and 1A, one and one-half miles from Salem Center. For more information, call 508-744-0991.

(please see above).

"That doesn't surprise me, because I think experimentation at that age is pretty typical," said Allard, who feels Lynnfield's survey results are in line with area and national statistics.

"The majority of Lynnfield 11th grade males reported first trying marijuana at age 16, while 15 was the age for the majority of females."

"Twenty percent of the 11th grade females smoke marijuana several times a month, as do 16 percent of the males."

"Only 11 percent of males and 1 percent of females said they felt pressure to use drugs."

"While the survey did not ask students whether they have experimented with drugs other than marijuana and alcohol, just over half of the males (52 percent) and females (53 percent) said they had personally witnessed other drug use such as LSD, heroin and speed."

"The Lynnfield Youth Risk Behavior Survey was administered in late May. Anonymous responses were received from 99 percent of sixth graders, 97 percent of ninth graders and 91 percent of 11th graders in the Lynnfield Public Schools."

"The survey was required by the state Department of Education in order for the school system to continue receiving the Safe and Drug-Free Schools Grant. The grant totaled $9,400 this past school year, and Lynnfield will receive $11,000 for the 1997-98 school year."

"In addition to drugs and alcohol, the survey asked students questions about cigarette smoking, sexuality and sexually-transmitted diseases, self-esteem, weight, pressure, stress, weapons, violence and safety."

And shocking

"One survey statistic that shocked Allard came from 11th grade females, 100 percent of whom said they have been to a party where alcohol was present," continues the "Lynnfield Villager" (please see above). "Ninety-three percent of males have been to a party where alcohol was present."

"Eighty percent of 11th grade males and 71 percent of 11th grade females reported they had consumed alcohol (more than a sip) within the last month of when the survey was administered."

'No margin of error'

"While 'The Villager' obtained all survey questions administered for the surveys, Allard and the Health Advisory Committee did not release the full results," continues the "Lynnfield Villager" (please see above).

"We only put in the statistics we thought were necessary or seemed a little bit surprising," Allard said, referring to the report released to school administrators, health personnel and the media. "Anything that wasn't mentioned was a low percentage."

"Students, for example, were asked how often they drink alcohol. They could check off one of the following responses: I don't drink, a few times per year, several times per year, once a month, or several times a month."

"The report released by Allard indicated only that 31 percent of 11th grade females and 35 percent of males drink alcohol several times a month."

"There is also no margin of error for the survey. The Health Advisory Committee did not include a 'non-question' in the survey to test whether students were taking the survey seriously."

Three common household dilemmas

Q: We have a drain line around the foundation of our house that runs to the edge of a stream. When it rains and the stream gets full, it covers the end of the drainpipe. Could this cause water to back up in the drainpipe or will it continue to drain out?

A: It all depends on the elevation of the drain line relative to the stream when the stream is running full. A difference in elevation will create a pressure differential. And as long as there is a greater pressure in the drainpipe, the water will flow out into the stream.

When the edge of the drain line is submerged in the stream, water flowing down the drainpipe will flow into the stream. However, a residual amount of water equal to the level of the stream will remain in the pipe.

If the level of the stream, when the stream is running full, is above the level of the drain line that runs around the foundation, then the water will back up into the drain line to the foundation and cause a water seepage problem. Q: The previous owner of my house used silicone caulk on everything in sight. How can I get it off?

A: The most common sol-basement making that area quite damp. This, in turn, promotes the growth of mold and mildew. Opening the windows and using a fan to circulate the air will only work vent for silicone caulk, as recommended by the Silicone Division of General Electric, is isopropyl alcohol. If that doesn't do the job, you can try a stronger solvent such as paint thinner that contains Xylene.

Your home: Q & A

Q: About a year ago, I built a closet in the basement to store our clothes in the off-season. Our summer clothes were stored last winter and they were fine this spring when I took them out. However, when I retrieved our winter clothes which had been stored for the summer, I found them full of mold and mildew. How can I solve this problem?

A: Basements, because they are below grade, are cooler in the summer than the rest of the house. As a result, the moisture in the humid, summer air tends to condense in the

when the humidity of the outside air is not as high as it usually is in the summer. And, the problem is compounded in a closet because of the confined space and stagnant air.

The best approach is to install a dehumidifier in the basement. While it's not practical to place it in the closet, you can install vent openings in the top and bottom of the closet door to help circulate the basement air.

Another approach is to use chemicals that absorb moisture such as silica gel and activated alumina. These have the capacity to absorb half their weight in water. They can be placed in the closet in a bucket or cloth bags hung from the closet pole. After they've become saturated, the water can be drawn off by heating and the chemicals can be reused.

Residential. Finishing off the conference speakers were Gayle Friedland of Forest City Development, Richard Gold of Boston Financial and Peter Capobianco of Ernst & Young, Kenneth Leventhal Real Estate Group.

"This year's conference was again a tremendous opportunity to meet and exchange ideas with several of the best and brightest real estate people working the New England marketplace. Based on the opinion of these experts, we can look forward to a sustained period of low interest rates and a good climate within which to buy or sell real estate over the next few years," added Mr. Joly, who holds a Bachelors of Science in Business Administration from Babson College Class of 1979, and is president of Century 21 Boardwalk Real Estate Corp.

Local realtor James M. Joly recently attended the Third Annual Conference entitled "Demand For Real Estate in the Northeast/New England". The conference is a yearly event sponsored by The Center for Real Estate at Babson College in Wellesley.

Middlesex East REAL ESTATE SECTION

Country charm and upscale living

Country charm and the latest in conveniences mark this upscale home, Plan G-7 by HomeStyles Designers Network. For extra appeal, all of the living areas are housed in the main floor's 1,877 square feet. The upper floor can be finished, adding an additional 1,500 square feet.

The home combines dormer windows, simple rooflines and a railed porch to project a decidedly welcoming face. Arched openings join with columns to add curb appeal.

Elegant columns are set off from the foyer, while arched windows in the dining room and in the bedroom across the hall echo the detailing of the covered front porch.

Straight ahead, the family room displays a wall of French doors that overlook a covered back porch and a large deck. With its raised brick hearth, the fireplace is a fitting centerpiece of the room. There are built-in shelves and cabinets to the right of the fireplace and a plant shelf above them.

A curved island snack bar connects the gourmet kitchen to the sunny breakfast area, which features a 13 foot vaulted ceiling with skylights. All the other rooms have 9 foot ceilings. A nearby computer room is a spot for surfing the Internet and keeping up with business.

THE FORMAL DINING ROOM is in view from the foyer. Straight ahead is the family room anchored by a fireplace and a trio of French doors to the covered back porch and neighboring deck. Skylights crown the breakfast room, which is joined to the kitchen by a curved island snack bar. A computer room leads to the utility room and the two-car garage. On the other side of the home, two Bedrooms and a full bath flank the passage to the master bedroom which has a private bath.

The master bedroom has a window arrangement overlooking the backyard. The private bath includes a dual-sink vanity and a floor-to-ceiling storage unit with a built-in chest of drawers. Other extras include a step-up spa tub and a separate shower.

Design G-7 has a foyer, dining room, family room, breakfast nook, kitchen, three bedrooms, two full baths, computer room and utility room, totaling 1,877 square feet of living space. An upper-floor expansion area provides 1,500 square feet of future living space. The plan is available with 2x4 exterior wall framing and a standard basement, crawlspace or slab foundation. A two-car garage with an adjoining storage room provided 551 square feet of space.

New line of sink faucets available

Good news for do-it-yourselfers and plumbers is a new line of single-handle kitchen faucets that are not only sleekly styled, but offer a revolutionary new single-bolt tie-down installation method.

The new system, developed by Moen, uses a single bolt, in conjunction with a unique deck support plate, to allow the installer a much quicker - and simpler - time with the procedure. The special deck plate prevents the faucet from rotating because of locators that protrude through the sink holes. When the single bolt underneath is tightened, the slightly bowed deck plate is pulled down, creating a water-tight seal on the sink. It also uses a concealed gasket that creates a better seal, prevents leaking, and eliminates the need for plumber's putty.

The mounting system is available on Moen's complete offering of new single-handle kitchen faucets. For more information on the new installation method or a free brochure on Moen's faucets and sinks, call 1-800-553-6635.
